More to say...

I have been going to church since a baby so church means a lot to me because it is where I am able to see people from my community I don't usually get to see. One of my favourite parts about church was as a kid going to Sunday school because I got to do interactive crafts and games to do with church. I also always love to hear the choir sing the hymns it was another one of my favourite parts. And last but not least is Blair making church more fun and interactive in such an amazing way.

The church isn't just a church, Rev. Blair taught us to be kind and be grateful for what we have. He made us realise that some families are not as fortunate as us. He taught us to pray for guidance when we doubted ourselves. He teaches that we as a community can help people in need, whether local or even in Africa. The church is special, and filled with special people.

~ Sydney age 16

Church to me means family, friends and community. It means getting together to recognize and celebrate all the good, bad, sad, and happy things in life. Striving to be the best we can be. I love being part of something bigger than all of us, and sharing that with a great community! I loved being part of Sunday school and seeing new and old faces each week! I don't think there is anything specific that would bring me to church, I just got busy and need to get back into the routine (Blair is a bonus)!

I would like to see the church pews filled with new and returning faces, young and old!

~ Millie age 19

Church is a community, it is a place to come together. There is no judgement and we all take care of each other.

Looking forward, I would love to see the church thriving with activities like the social, the bizarre and the UCW back in full force.

~ Jennie age 22

It's FUN!

~ Emily age 6

My church is a place that I can always go back to, no matter how long I have been away. For me, church is a community of people who know, love, and welcome me, and I am thankful for this family that has been in my life as I have grown up. Sunday School, Christmas concerts, confirmation classes, and Sunday luncheons will always be a part of my childhood memories, and I absolutely love watching today's children have all of the experiences I had when growing up in the church. Now, church comforts me and welcomes me every time I come home, and I am grateful to be part of this community.
